Perfect Charity: Women Religious Living the Spirit of Vatican II

In this book, fourteen women religious tell their personal stories of the dramatic changes they experienced as a result of the Second Vatican Council. What they described is radical renewal. Their stories chart journeys that took them from school classrooms to the wider world. Variousy they went to universities, practiced canon law, became feminist theologians and biblical scholars, and worked with the marginalized and asylum seekers. The sisters' contribution to the educational and cultural life of Australia has been largely anonymous and its significance understated. Within twenty years few religious orders will survive Australia in their current form. This book is a timely record of the experiences of remarkable women. Aimed primarily at the general reader, it also provides material of value to the academic scholar and researcher.
